 orientation of teachers to current reporting methods.)
 6. Send notes to parents of 8th graders to determine how many want letter grades.
 7. Encourage teachers to avoid a "too positive" approach in individual conferences. Teachers should be honest as they can be in reporting progress of students.

 8. Set up a pilot study incorporating suggested approaches or activities.
 9. Have conferences accompany written reports for added source of communication and understanding.
 10. Use of a separate special report to accompany our present system of reporting and conferences. This would include achievement levels (of test results) in terms of the child's ability and in comparison with other members of the class. This was suggested as an additional written report so that each parent would be reached.

 11. Consider current successful practices which are used by teachers and principals to interpret a child's ability to the child and the parent.
 Giving letter grades, with an explanation of why the grade was given.

WARWHOOOP RECEIVES ALL-AMERICAN HONORS

All-American honors were conferred upon the El Camino College Warwhoop for the seventh consecutive semester according to an announcement made this week by the Associated Collegiate Press, donor of the award for college news coverage.
 Published by the Associated Students of El Camino, the weekly newspaper is student-edited and student-financed.
 In garnering the coveted award, the Warwhoop tabulated a total score of 1715 points, 115 more than the number required for the top honor rating of the evaluating organization, whose headquarters are located on the campus of the University of Minnesota.

 The Warwhoop was one of eight junior college newspapers of its class to receive the All-American award in judging which included college papers from all areas of the nation nearly 500 in all.
 A newspaper guidebook outlining areas of strength and weakness of papers judged indicated that the local college paper is particularly outstanding in the coverage of news stories and the "initiative shown in the coverage of features."

Rating of junior college publications was done under the direction of Dean Schoelkopf, reporter for the Minneapolis Tribune and former editor of the Minnesota Daily. Director of the Associated Collegiate Press is Fred L. Kildow.

Max Shapiro of Inglewood, now majoring in journalism at San Jose State college, edited the fall semester paper and wrote the column, "Max No Difference."

Serving as commissioners of publications and associate news editor during the first semester was J. P. vanEttinger of Hermosa Beach, still a member of the editorial staff.

Others responsible for the award-winning paper were Steve Lescher, Hawthorne, News editor; Louis Margadonna of Redondo Beach, feature editor; Mike Blum, Gardena, sports editor; Mrs. Olivia Diaz, business manager; Gene Gillette, Redondo Beach; advertising manager; and Don Bishop, Inglewood; Jim Brooks, Inglewood; Bill Godfrey, Redondo Beach; Bob Crowe, Redondo Beach, and Denise Funk, Torrance, reporters. Godfrey, also at San Jose State this semester, served as news editor for a half semester.

W. A. Kamrath, college coordinator of public relations, has advised the publication for the past seven semesters.

college will be impossible without approval of the tax rate.
 In following the unique, "pay-as-you-go" plan of financing, the college has developed the present modern campus, which is entirely debt-free. No interest charges to the taxpayer are accrued under the plan.

Five Districts Administered by a Board of Trustees representing the five high school districts included in the college district, El Camino is a community college in administration as well as in function and intent.

Representing the Inglewood area on the college board is Seymour Rayer, most recently elected member. The beach area of the district is represented by Foster A. Day of Redondo Beach, recently appointed to fill the term of the late J. R. Black, former board president.

The Centinella Valley area is represented by Dr. Wallace Fraser, who serves as secretary of the administrative group, while Hilar C. Ashley is the vice-president of the board, representing the El Segundo area.

Presently serving as president of the Board of Trustees is Jack N. Dabbs, who is up for reelection on the May 17 ballot in the Torrance area. He runs unopposed.

Closely related to the Board and its activities is Forrest G. Murdock, president of the college and superintendent of the college district. Considering the May 17 election, President Murdock stated, "the phenomenal development of the El Camino campus has misled people into believing that the plant as it now stands is complete."

"With its facilities now utilized at full capacity, the campus is sufficient only for its current enrollment. Viewing the inevitable influx of students as reflected by enrollment figures of the past and present secondary school registration, we know that provision for an enrollment more than doubling that now attending El Camino must be made. We are appealing to the college community to give its support in the forthcoming election and are confident that the public will not allow the progress already made to be blighted by overcrowded and inadequate facilities."

College classes are conducted for all but six weeks of the year to accommodate local educational demands, the college day running from 7:30 a.m. until 10 p.m. daily.

Exam Slated For Civics Requirement

Residents of the El Camino college district may fulfill the California Teachers' Credential Requirement of passing an examination in the Constitution of the United States by taking a test at the college Friday, May 24.
 The examination will be given in Room 6 of the Social Science Building at 3 p.m., Dr. William H. Harless, director of instruction, announced.
 The college is located at 16007 S. Crenshaw blvd.
